

GREAT FALLS PLANT DECLARED POSSIBLE AT 10,000,000 COST

Expert of Treasury Outlines
New Plan For River Power Plant.

LIGHT FOR RESIDENCES

Departments and Large Part of City Could Be Supplied, Engineer Suggests.

Great Falls can be harnessed to give light and power to the Government departments and a large part of the city at a cost not exceeding $10,000,000, in the opinion of N. S. Thompson, chief mechanical and electrical engineer of the supervising architect's office of the Treasury.

Previous studies of the situation at Great Falls have not found a satisfactory solution to the problems of dam site and power distribution, he believes.

Following a revival of interest in Congress, and in the community for harnessing of this great water power—a solution of the electricity problem in Washington for which The Times has persistently contended—Mr. Thompson suggests that a board of competent engineers be appointed by Congress to consider the project and report.

Expert in Construction.

He is an expert on mechanical and electrical construction, and is in charge of the design and construction of the central heating, lighting, and power plant at the foot of Thirtieth and a-half street southwest, which has been opposed because of its location and stacks.

"I believe," said Mr. Thompson, "that the Great Falls project should become an actuality not later than 1925, and should be treated in conjunction with the plant now building, which would form its absolutely necessary steam auxiliary."

From preliminary studies of the Great Falls project, it is my opinion that a board of competent Government engineers should be appointed by Congress to serve without pay, and be directed to report back to Congress on the project not later than December 15, 1916.

Based on the rough preliminary studies, it seems that expenditure of not exceeding $10,000,000 would be sufficient to increase the water supply of the District and to build the Great Falls project sufficiently to develop the average flow of the river at about 70,000 cubic feet per second.

Former studies of the project have not offered a satisfactory solution of the basic problems, such as location of dam, plant site and distribution.

Should Enlarge Scope.

"These studies have been confined to the supply of too limited a market," the Federal buildings only in the District of Columbia. The scope of the project should be enlarged.

"First, to take in the entire city of Washington, and, second, to take in all of the Federal buildings and the homes of the 40,000 Government workers here."

"Such a principle is followed by private mill owners, who in such development invariably figure in the load, the supply of the homes of its workers."

Up From Leesburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Carter have come up from their place at Leesburg, Va., and during their stay in Washington will be at the Shoreham.

The Congressional ladies of the Cairo entertained yesterday afternoon the largest reception of the season. The ballroom was decorated with palms, growing plants, and cut flowers. Pink predominated, and this color scheme was still further carried out in the daintily appointed tea tables. From 400 to 500 guests called during the afternoon.
